ANNUAL REPORT HORSE BREEDING DIVISION 1916

The number of stallions licensed in Pennsylvania in 1916 was 2,049. This is 209 less than in 1915. Thirty-six of this number were purebreds and the balance were non-registered. The Percherons lead all other purebreds by about three to one. There were 542 licensed in 1916. The next most popular breed was the Standardbreds with 175 licensed. From a geographical point of view Westmoreland County has the largest number of purebreds as well as grades or non-registered stallions. This county has 60 purebreds and 27 unregistered stallions licensed. Crawford and Chester counties stand second and third. There were but five Jacks licensed in the State.

There were 21,126,000 horses and 4,639,000 mules in the United States January 1, 1917. The estimated price per head was $102.94 for horses and $118.32 for mules. This is an average gain per head for the year of $1.34 on horses and $4.49 on mules. We shipped 1,029,961 horses and mules from this country to the European War up to December 1, 1916. The price varied according to size and type. Cavalry horses average in weight from 1,000 to 1,100 pounds. The maximum price to the farmer for such horses is $115 per head. The English Government allows for artillery horses weighing from 1,200 to 1,500 pounds $160 and $240 per head for those weighing 1,650 pounds and over. The French government allows $140 to $160 for the same weight horse. The British government allows for mules graded according to size the following prices:—

14 to 14½ hands high, $75 to $125,
15 to 15½ hands high, $175 to $225,
16 to 16½ hands high, $200 to $275.

Most of the horses and mules purchased for the War were from the Middle West. The heavy horses and the large mules have been especially useful in the war.

More concerted and individual attention should be given to horse breeding in Pennsylvania. There are not enough horses raised here to supply our own markets. We have plenty of stallions and some of the best. Sixteen different breeds and many high class grades are owned in the State. The interest in breeding draft horses has increased wonderfully during the past few years. The type of mares are better now than formerly. We have more draft grade mares but few purebreds. The demand recently has been for heavy horses and it is more than likely that this will continue. There is a general opinion, among those best qualified to judge, that the price and demand for horses will increase materially in the next few years as a result of the extensive shipments abroad in the past two years. The farmers in the State should try to raise horses and mules enough at least for their own use and to do this they must raise many more than they have in the past. It is doubtful whether the farm tractor will ever be as useful as the horse or as economical on our average Pennsylvania farms.

The Percheron horse which has made a remarkably good record in the present war was developed in the rural portion of France. He has evidently absorbed much of the spirit and staying qualities of the French people. The French government has assisted its people wonderfully in horse breeding but the farmers themselves are entitled to the greatest part of the credit. The government furnishes the stallion. Each farmer keeps a good purebred brood mare or enough to do his farm work. They are bred each year and every farmer in this particular section breeds only Percherons. In other sections the same careful attention is given to breeding thoroughbreds or some other worthy breed. With good care and good food the colt is kept growing. He does not loose his milk fat till he reaches maturity. A colt raised in this way makes a most valuable horse. In a good horse country one seldom sees a long haired, pot bellied colt, or one of inferior breed, quality or conformation. Neither the good stallions nor the desirable brood mares are being used by foreign countries in the war. They are getting rid of those that are undesirable for breeding purposes in this way but they are too wise to sacrifice their best horses in war. They have kept on breeding and as soon as the war is over will have as many good horses as ever to ship to us and there is every prospect that we will need them as much in the future as we have in the past.

Our people are not giving too much attention to breeding dairy cattle, sheep or swine yet there appears to be more interest along these lines than is shown in horse breeding. The horse has done his share in making this country what it is today. His work is finished by no means. Nothing speaks better for a good farmer or is more useful to him than a pair of well groomed, well fed, well broken, well bred horses. Those he raises are more companionable and should be most desirable in every way.

Iowa has taken the lead of all other States in horse breeding. It is one of the most profitable branches of animal husbandry in that State.

Motor trucks, farm tractors and other forms of machine drawn vehicles have replaced the horse in many lines of work. The prospects have been discouraging to those interested in horses. The machines have come to stay and they have their place. The horse has his place also and must be included in our plans for handling commerce and doing work in the future. He has his place in war and among all the wonderful inventions of modern warfare nothing has been found that can fill his place. Without horses an army would be helplessly handicapped. It is the same with agriculture and other peaceful occupations.

Most of the foreign countries are far ahead of us in horse breeding. They have all demonstrated what can be done by an intelligent and constant application of the well known principles of breeding. This has been demonstrated by the Clydes in Scotland, the Shires in England, the Percherons in France, and the Belgians in Belgium. Iowa has demonstrated that successful horse breeding can be profitably conducted in this country.

Stallion owners have done and are doing about all that can be expected of them. It might be best for the horse breeding interests of the State if all were compelled to use one breed of horse and everybody do his best to develop this particular breed. This is practically what has been done in countries where our best breeds originated. It is doubtful if this plan could ever be worked successfullly in a free country. Those interested in horse breeding should have an ideal and stick to it for years. As a class mare owners are fickle. They will breed to a light road horse one year or generation and to a heavy draft type the next. Another fault that is observed with mare owners is that too many of them breed overworked, underfed, old, crippled or unsound mares. To produce the best get the dam and sire must be of the same general type. Each must be sound, strong and vigorous and receive good care. Breeding counts just as much in the dam as it does in the sire. Both are better if given a reasonable amount of work. A good mare can do her part of the work on a farm and raise a colt every year. It is not necessary for her to be idle for more than two weeks during her foaling period. She can begin breeding at three years of age and continue for fifteen years or more.

We trust that much more attention will be given to horse breeding in Pennsylvania in the future than has been shown in the past.

A stallion registration law has been in operation in Pennsylvania since 1907. Many other States have adopted somewhat similar laws. No State has a law that is more just or one that has been conducted with less friction. Much of the credit for the wise provisions in the law and the justice of its enforcement in the past was due to the efforts of Carl W. Gay, who had charge of this work for the Board up to last year. In August of 1916 he resigned from this service to accept a position as Professor of Animal Husbandry and Chairman of Animal Industry Group at the University of Minnesota. Since his resignation the work has been conducted along the same practical lines from the Harrisburg office. We all feel under a deep debt of gratitude to Dr. Gay for the faithful, efficient service rendered to horse breeding in Pennsylvania, and wish him continued success in his new and responsible position.
